Invasion of the penis snatchers.

Purported victims, 14 of whom were also detained by police, claimed that sorcerers simply touched them to make their genitals shrink or disappear, in what some residents said was an attempt to extort cash with the promise of a cure.

"You just have to be accused of that, and people come after you. We've had a number of attempted lynchings. ... You see them covered in marks after being beaten," Kinshasa's police chief, Jean-Dieudonne Oleko, told Reuters on Tuesday.

Police arrested the accused sorcerers and their victims in an effort to avoid the sort of bloodshed seen in Ghana a decade ago, when 12 suspected penis snatchers were beaten to death by angry mobs. The 27 men have since been released.

This is so totally work-related.

Because it's all about the mythology, that's why.

Current Mood: bored
Current Music: a whole lot of case fans

"What was left was tiny!"

Hey, a whole new explanation for why ten inches turns out not to be ten inches! "But baby, when I dressed for this date, it was HUGE! Trust me! Musta been that guy who bumped against me in the men's room in the restaurant..."

Oh my god! He was wearing a gold ring!

claimed that sorcerers simply touched them to make their genitals shrink or disappear,

Geez. I know some people who'd pay good money for that.

So don't go buying it for yourself.

I might even let you borrow it sometimes. That is, if I were to happen to have one.

Birthday, birthday, who's got the birthday?

Oh, she's not so bad. That space alien in the cape has turned her head, is all.

When I decided to be born in February, I must not have realized I'd own a motorcycle. Winter storms play hell with...

Too soon?

Is this conversation grounds for workplace harassment? Not my half of it, of course.

Next time I walk into the local office, I'm going shirtless to make sure I comply with y'all's dress code

This sounds like "Genital retraction syndrome" (the things one learns about from nursing students).
